Offstage Involvement

The DODS is powered not just by the performers on stage, but by a brilliant team of volunteers working tirelessly behind the scenes - from wardrobe and set-building to stage management and front of house. We genuinely couldn't do what we do without you.

We also understand that getting involved offstage often starts with a simple "yes" to help out - and we're hugely grateful for that. Unlike onstage cast members, we don't expect offstage volunteers to become paid members straight away. In fact, we consider your first year with us as a guest of the society, no strings (or invoices!) attached.

That said, if you continue to be involved beyond that first year, we kindly ask that you consider becoming a full member by paying the annual subscription. This small contribution helps cover things like insurance, venue hire, equipment, and society running costs - and supports the group as a whole to thrive. It also gives you voting rights at our AGM, giving you a voice in shaping the future of the society.

If you have any questions - or need more time - just speak to a member of the membership team. We're here to support you, just as you've supported us.

Thank you for being part of The DODS. Whether it's for one show or many more, your time, talent, and energy are deeply appreciated.
